

ABSTRACT

The invention herein provides a glove structure, which mainly consists of a rubber pad fixed on extremity of the fingers of any conventional soft glove. The afore-mentioned pad can turn a glove with 5 separated fingers into a webbed hand. Apart from being very handy when carrying things or as a swimming-aid among other functions, the invention herein is particularly useful to prevent a scuba diver from scraping his fingers against corals.